COLLEGE TAXI DRIVER RUN DOWN LITTLE GIRL

Exonerated from Blame for Fatal Accident Near Grampian.

DIED IN FEW MINUTES

As to the accident which resulted in the death of a little girl, Annie Lorrain Van Freeman, run down by Chas. H. Tressler, State College taxi driver, we quote from the Philipsburg Journal as follows:

A very distressing accident occurred at Stonach, near Grampian, on Friday afternoon when Annie Lorrain, the little five year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Van Freeman, was struck by a seven passenger Cadillac car and almost instantly killed. The driver of the car was Charles H. Tressler, of State College, who was returning to that place from a trip to Brookville. Those who witnessed the accident exonerated Mr. Tressler from all blame.

Mr. Tressler had passed through the town of Grampian and was driving along the highway near Stronach, when suddenly the little girl darted out from behind the automobile of the free delivery mail man who had stopped to get some mail. It is declared that Mr. Tressler was not going at a rate of over ten miles per hour, but so suddenly did the little girl appear in front of him that he had no chance to stop before striking her. The fender struck little Annie on the side of the head, crushing her skull like an egg shell. The tot also suffered other injuries and was picked up in a dying condition by Mr. Tressler, who stopped his car within thirty feet of the point where the child was struck. It was apparent at a glance that her injuries were fatal and she died as she was being carried into the home of her parents a couple of hundred feet distant.

Mr. Tressler, who felt his position very keenly, gave himself up to the authorities and offered to make every amend possible, but it was the opinion of the eye-witnesses to the sad affair that he was entirely blameless in the matter and upon these facts being made known to District Attorney Arnold, who went to Stronach upon hearing of the accident to investigate the happening, Tressler was allowed to proceed to his home and no charge will be made against him as the accident was regarded as entirely unavoidable. Mr. Freeman, the child's father, though heartbroken over the loss of his little one, said he believed the driver of the car entireless blameless.

Snow Shoe Doubled Quota.

The town of Snow Shoe has won the honor of being first, so far the only one, to double the quota set for boosting the Pennsylvania State College emergency building fund of $2,000,000. The quota of Snow Shoe was placed at $2,000. To date the subscriptions are well over $4,000. Only 30 persons were solicited and 27 gave pledges that averaged $150 each. This is all the more remarkable when it is recalled that only one Penn State alumnus is in the district. Every one in the railroad offices, employes in the office of the Lehigh Valley Coal Co., the Cherry Run Coal Co., the Kelly Bros., and the Moravian Coal Co. contributed handsomely to the fund. Bellefonte has raised $8,730 of the quota of $10,000 and confidently expects to go "Over the Top" soon.

Getting Ready for Memorial Day.

Memorial Day observance now is joined in more widely than ever and the making of the program falls more upon the younger veterans of the World war, the Brooks-Doll post of the American Legion, associated with the G. A. R., veterans of the Civil war, whose ranks of blue are becoming very thin. The Brooks-Doll post will again take active charge of the observance this year, but have given no definite arrangements for the public as yet.

Option on Valentine Property.

The Decker Bros., the firm handling Chevrolet automobiles in Centre County, have secured an option on the Valentine property at the corner of High and Spring Sts., in Bellefonte, extending until May 15. The property is desired as a garage location, Decker Bros. having been after a property where they can expand, the Big Spring garage being inadequate to accommodate their growing business.

Township Schools Closed.

Most of the township schools have closed within the past two weeks and the pupils are now helping with the farm work.

RED MEN IN PARADE

Annual Convention at Lock Haven Attended by Local Tribes.

The annual convention of the Red Men of the Central Pennsylvania League at Lock Haven on Tuesday and Wednesday was well attended by the Centre County tribes. The parade on Wednesday afternoon was a feature and was typical of the one held in Bellefonte at the convention here last spring.

Wetzler's Boys' Band of Milesburg, in their pretty uniforms, the Nyphen Club and Greenburr bands were in line. Among the tribes in line from Centre County were Bellefonte, Snow Shoe, State College and Philipsburg.

The city was gaily decorated for the event and representatives from tribes in 19 counties were present. Bunting and flags, with emblems, attributed mostly to the decorations.

One of the novel features of the parade was the stage coach brought by the Lewistown tribe. The coach was used more than 75 years ago to transport passengers between Lewistown and Pittsburgh. In those days there were no railroads.

CHAS. AMMERMAN HURT

Chemical Passenger Bus Collided with Hand Car.

Charles Ammerman, of Bellefonte, employed as a trackman by the Bellefonte Central Railroad Co., was painfully bruised and cut, but fortunate in escaping serious injuries, when the bus used by the Chemical Lime Co. to transport workmen, collided with a handcar at the crossing at the Centre County lime kilns at 7:30 o'clock last Friday morning. Ammerman was quickly brought to a doctor's office and then taken to his home.

The bus was driven by Edgar Kelley, regularly employed in this capacity. There were no other persons in the bus. There were several men on the hand car. All escaped injury, however, excepting Ammerman. Both the hand car and bus were damaged considerably.

The Bellefonte Academy Minstrels

Next week is that annual event to which many look forward to with keen anticipation—the Bellefonte Academy minstrels. Prof. James R. Hughes informs us they are bigger and better this year than ever before. The unusual Academy talent is supported by our home town quartette—Capt. Frederick Reynolds, Cecil Walker, James Sebig and Clarence Williams—as well as by some clever artists from the Bellefonte High School, who have been highly praised by Prof. Hughes. The minstrels will be presented on two evenings, next Thursday and Friday, in the opera house. The proceeds is to increase the fund to provide an adequate fresh water supply at the Hughes field and the Hughes memorial pond. The musical specialties and dancing this year are features worth the admission alone. Intermingled throughout the program are new jokes and selections by Academy vocal artists. Van Hee will be interlocutor, supported by 6 funny ends. Get your seats early.

Boys' Minstrels Good.

The St. John's Boys' minstrels given last Thursday and Friday evening at St. John's Parish House were largely attended and pronounced remarkably good for home talent. The cast was as follows: James Shope, interlocutor; Harold Hosg, Walter Clark, Donald Klinger, Victor Emel, end men; Evan Blanchard, John Shoemaker, Robert McClellan, Carl Dubbs, John Barnes, Fred Shope, Donald Woomer, David Geiss, Edward Kern, Victor Watson, Andrew Wetzel, Charles Bullock, Philip Wion, Gilbert Shope, Ray Sinheiser, Walter Bathurst, Fred Fisher, Mallory Knisely, William Carry and Richard Taylor, circle. Mrs. Louis Schad presided at the piano; Donald Mallory handled the drums and William Garbrick and Carl Gray were managers. The proceeds was for the camping fund of the Boy Scouts, Troop No. 1, and the splendid attendance on both evenings was gratifying.

Memorial at Treziyulny Cemetery.

Memorial services will be held at the Treziyulny cemetery at Milesburg this year as has been customary for a number of years past. The late Mrs. Sarah Treziyulny Gibbs and her brother took much interest in this work in their lifetime and the services will be held as usual this year by their friends.

Fell from Ladder; Neck Broken.

Thomas Ennis, 33 years old and married, of Philipsburg, an employe of the Penn Public Service Co., fell from a steplader last Thursday morning and was taken to the Cottage State hospital in a serious condition. An X-Ray examination revealed that his neck was broken.

MANY CALLED TO FIGHT BIG FIRE IN BARRENS

Burned Over One Thousand Acres of Growing Timber.

CAUSED HEAVY LOSSES

One of the most destructive forest fires of the season started in at least four places in the Barrens district near State College and burned over close to 3,000 acres of young timberland, on Monday. Students from the Bellefonte Academy and the Boy Scouts helped to control the flames.

A barn on the Centre County Clay Co. land just west of the college, was entirely destroyed. It was empty and Russell Blair who helped extinguish the fire, estimates the loss at $2,000 He further said, "Its a pity that some folks do not realize how important it is to respond quickly when their services are needed in fighting fire. If there had not been unnecessary delay in securing the fighters' some of whom seem to hold back for various excuses, the barn and considerable timber destroyed could have been saved."

There were several fire wardens present to handle the fire, the local fire fighters being under E. T. Haines, of Snow Shoe, who was also assisted by Thomas Mosier, game protector, of Bellefonte.

Mr. Mosier said, "We do not know exactly what caused the fire. It was started in four places and looked as though some person had set it on fire." Many persons from the vicinity of State College also joined in fighting the fire.

VAN INGEN VERY SUCCESSFUL

Overland and Willys-Knight Cars Very Popular in County.

So popular have the Overland and Willys-Knight automobiles become in Centre County under the successful business methods of the local agent, R. N. Van Ingen, that the entire allotment possible to secure to date, or 32 cars, has been disposed of and Mr. Van Ingen says it is likely the price will be increased.

A new addition is being built to the Van Ingen garage. It will be entirely of concrete and steel, of fireproof type, and 45 by 50 feet in size to give adequate room and accommodation in maintaining real service for the Overland and Willys-Knight owners. Mr. Van Ingen said: "I can give the best of service. I have on hand every part of either car and with the added room will install modern machinery so as to take the best of care of all work. The garage shop and the show room will be separate." He expects to have the new addition completed within several weeks.

Was Rather Disappointing Parade.

The hundreds of persons from surrounding points in the county who came to Bellefonte last Monday to see the circus parade wondered what had become of the Walter L. Main circus of the good, old days. In fact, they wouldn't have recognized the parade as belonging to to the famous circuses that years ago traveled under the name of Walter L. Main. That on Mondaymight be said to have been over before it got started. Anything it lacked in quality it made up in brevity. Much of the equipment, and some of the best horses, were left at the show grounds and never appeared in the street display. Instead of parading over the greater part of the town, as the Main circuses used to do, that on Monday entered town via one street and departed in a few minutes by way of another street, so that most parts of the borough were ignored. It was a poor advertisement to lure the crowd to the show grounds.

"Springtime" a Success.

'Springtime," a stupendous local talent production, was successfully presented last night at the opera house and will be given tonight, with prospects of a good house. The costumes are very pretty and the scenes enhanced the ability shown by the local actors, who have deserved the commendation of the public, as they spent much time in getting the production ready. The proceeds will be evenly divided between the Camp Fire Girls and the Y. M. C. A.

Will Picnic at Snow Shoe.

Plans have been started for a big picnic at the Snow Shoe driving park on May 30th. There will be base ball games in the morning and afternoon, contests in which $100 will be given away and dancing during the evening until 12 o'clock.

BIG CIRCUS CAGE OVER BANK AT RHOADS CORNER

Hybrid Animal, Half Lion, Half Tiger, Badly Scared.

WAS MUCH DAMAGED

G-r-r--r! Ruhr! Ruhr-r-r-r! splintering of wood and twisting of steel—what an exciting time Sunday morning when one of the big cages of the Walter L. Main circus went over the embankment at the sharp turn on West Linn St. and the big wild animal it held seemed to think that the end of time had come. But nothing more serious happened.

The cage was next to the last in the train and was kept from going entirely over the embankment because it was coupled to other cages and the coupling did not part. The last cage struck a tree and the weight of the cages ahead kept them on the road so that one with the hybrid in it stopped just after going over the edge of the embankment. It was a very difficult feat to get the damaged cage back on its wheels and the animal transferred to another cage, but the work was done skilfully by the experienced shopmen.

The cage, fully as strong as all the bright, clean equipment looked, held and when it stopped the hybrid was nervous, but still encaged and unharmed. By afternoon she, for her name is "Sue," had a new cage and the show workers were repairing the damaged cage.

"Sue" is not a lioness, though she resembles one very much, excepting that she seems more strong and lithe, is even prettier, the solid tawny coloring being regularly dotted with small, almost black spots. She was one of the big attractions at the show Monday afternoon and it was learned that she is half tiger, half lion.

As the press agent for the show, an old circus man who knows his business a few showmen do, showed our representative over the menagerie, he stopped at "Sue's" cage. He talked to her like an old friend and tickled her in the ribs. And "Sue" seemed to like it.

The accident which upset her cage occurred when the big wagon which was part of a train of six being taken to the Fair Grounds by an auto truck (now much used by the modern circus), struck a stone as it skidded and overturned.

GAVE BOYS CLOSE CALL

Raymond Shultz, of Milesburg, Pushed from Bridge by Auto.

Raymond Smith, 8 years old, of Milesburg, and his companion, Edgar Wallace, were given a close call on Friday afternoon, about 5 o'clock, when an automobile, said to have been driven by a Mr. Woodring, of Osceola Mills, turned to the left side of the high bridge spanning Balk Eagle Creek at Milesburg.

The Wallace boy was able to keep from being pushed into the creek as he was at the extreme edge of the bridge, but the car came so closely to the Shultz lad that he was pushed over the edge of the bridge and landed in the creek. It is deep at this point, but it happened that the lad could swim and he was able to get to shore, where it was found he had suffered some bruises, but no serious injuries.

Tyrone Man Hurt Here.

Edison DePriest, of Tyrone, was bruised but not seriously injured when his automobile was wrecked at Roopsburg on Sunday. He and a friend were driving to Bellefonte and apparently were unaware of the sharp curve at the foot of the hill by the Roopsburg mill. His car failed to make the curve and he went into the race, where it was wrecked.

Will Crowd High School.

Entrance examinations for rural students who desire to come into the Bellefonte High School this fall were held on Saturday and 140 applicants were given the examinations. It is expected that the majority of the 140 will pass and, as the High School was crowded this year, it will be even more so next year.

Car Damaged.

The coupe of a Snow Shoe man was damaged considerably Sunday afternoon, but the occupants escaped injury, when it got beyond control on the concrete highway just south of Runville and ran into an embankment.

No Council.

When Council comes on circus day, here is no Council. There was no quorum present on Monday evening.

CONSERVATION COUNCIL

Meetings Will Be Held at State College on May 24 and 25.

The State Conservation Council, organized a year ago by over 20 state-wide organizations and over 30 county conservation associations, and county, fish, game and forestry associations, will hold its annual meeting at State College on May 24 and 25.

The meetings will begin with a dinner on Thursday, May 24, at 6 P. M., at which time prominent conservationists have been asked to address the Council including Governor Gifford Pinchot; Hon. Seth E. Gordon, secretary of the state Game commission; Hon. N. R. Buller, commissioner of fisheries; Hon. R. Y. Stuart, commissioner of forestry; Dr. Witmer Stone, president of the Audubon Society; Dr. O. E. Jennings, president of the Botanical Society of Western Penns.; Dr. B. H. Warren, former state food commissioner, and Dr. T. E. Finnegan, Supt. of Public Instruction.

On Friday morning at 9 o'clock meetings of the various state committees will be held to draw up resolutions to present to the meeting of the general council at 11 A. M. These state committees cover the following conservation activities,—stream pollution, forestry, fish, game, wild flowers, song birds. A conservation dinner will be served at 1 P. M.

"Stream Pollution" will be the chief topic for discussion at the meetings. Prominent conservationists and representatives of industries responsible for stream pollution have been asked to present their side of the case, among them Dr. H. S. Drinker, Merion station, a member of the state forestry commission and formerly general counsel of the Lehigh Valley Coal Co.; Hon. Frank B. Black, of Garrett, soft coal operator; J. A. Jobson, efficiency manager of the New York and Pennsylvania Pulp and Paper Co.; W. B. McCaleb, member of the state game commission; Dr. B. H. Warren, West Chester, former state pure food commissioner; Dr. R. J. Donaldson, state game commission; Col. Henry W. Shoemaker, member of the state forestry commission; Harry A. McGraw, president of the Blair County Alpine Club; S. C. Lowery, Williamsport; R. Hayes Stewart, Island; Dr. Chalmers Fulton, Philadelphia; George A. Lukehart, DuBois; Dr. H. F. Shantz, president, Berks County Rod and Gun Club, Reading; and Lincoln G. Ruth, president of the Bucks County Conservation Association.

It is believed from a full and free discussion some plan can be worked out to stop the present pollution of streams, and provision made for carrying on investigation to render neutral such materials as must naturally flow into streams. Resolutions will be adopted in regard to legislation to be presented to the next Legislature.

Groves—Brady.

The culmination of a pretty romance was the marriage on last Thursday evening at the Bellefonte Presbyterian church by the pastor, Rev. Dr. David R. Evans, of Herbert Groves, of St. Augustine, Florida, and Miss Margaret Brady, of Unionville. The groom is a successful attorney in St. Augustine and his bride is one of Bald Eagle valley's popular young women. She met Mr. Groves while at the Barcelona, a leading hotel in St. Augustine, owned and managed by Miss A. N. Blair, an aunt of the bride. Miss Blair resides in Unionville during the summer months and goes to Florida in the autumn, keeping her hotel open during the winter until the tourist trade becomes slack in the spring. After the wedding, the bride and groom remained for the night at the Bush House and on Friday morning went to Florida where they will reside in St. Augustine. Their friends join with "The Republican" in wishing them a long and happy life.

Cox—Lytle.

David Harold Cox, son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Cox, of Blanchard, and Miss Eva May Lytle, of Woodland, were united in marriage on Saturday, April 28, by L. H. Hauser, justice of the peace at Bigler. The groom is an employe of the Pennsylvania Fire Brick Co. at Beech Creek.

Bitten by Monkey.

While the Walter L. Main circus was in Philipsburg on Saturday one of the monkeys was being fed peanuts by Eleanor Schnarrs, five years old, and the animal bit her on the hand, painfully lacerating her four fingers.

Released on Bail.

Mrs. Alberta Austin, colored, of Philipsburg, who was in the jail in Bellefonte under bail for $1,000 to answer a charge of violating the prohibition laws, was released on Tuesday when friends furnished bail.

PITTSBURGH BUSINESS MEN HERE THIS MORNING

Pleasant Mutual Relations Fostered in Annual Trip.

PRES. WM. M. FUREY

This morning the local business men toured to Lock Haven to meet the 125 members of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce whose special train stopped here on the route of the annual trip. Burgess W. Harrison Walker delivered the address of welcome.

The business men from the Iron City and our local men enjoyed the occasion and better business relations were fostered so that increased business between the two cities is anticipated. The Pittsburgh men entertained with their famous quartet and several of the visitors gave addresses while here.

Pres. W. M. Furey.

They were taken to various parts of the county in motor cars and seemed to enjoy the trips.

MISS MARIE ARTZ HURT

Port Matilda Girl Injured in Leaping from Car.

Miss Marie Artz, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Artz, of Port Matilda, and about 14 years old, is in the hospital suffering from bruises and a fracture of one leg below the knee as the result of an accident on Sunday afternoon. In company with a party of young folks taking an automobile ride, she feared a collision just after crossing the Pennsy tracks east of Julian, and leaped from the car.

Just after passing the crossing there is a sharp curve in the road and another automobile was coming from the opposite direction. A man on a motor-cycle passed between the two cars, also going towards Julian and this forced the driver of the car from Port Matilda close to the side of the road, where there is a rather steep embankment.

Miss Artz was so sure that their car would go over the embankment that she leaped to escape being caught and landed at the foot of the embankment in the creek. The water is shallow at this point and her friends, after stopping the car, found her in no danger from drowning, but suffering from the fracture and from severe bruises and cuts. They immediately brought her to the hospital.

Fruit Not Hurt.

Prof. F. N. Hagan, head of the division of pomology at the Penna. State College and a recognized authority on fruit, was called this morning regarding the fruit outlook and said, "The damage so far in well cared for orchards is very slight. Plums and sweet cherries have suffered the most, but even they are but slightly hurt. There is no need to worry about the weather of the last two nights hurting the fruit."

Y. M. C. A. Bowlers.

A social closing event for the Y. M. C. A. bowling season and a tournament on the evening of May 22nd. is planned. A number of prizes will be put up and open competition held on the alleys. The bowling trophy will be presented to the champions and speeches made. Refreshments will be served and every bowler is expected to be on hand with a friend.

Marriage Licenses.

Register Frank Sasserman has issued the following marriage licenses:

Herbert B. Groves, St. Augustine, Fla.
Margaret Brady, Fleming

Malcolm S. Bathurst, Milesburg
Sarah S. Shultz, "

History of Baldwin Apple.

The Department of Agriculture says that soon after 1740 the Baldwin came up as a chance seedling on the farm of John Ball Wilmington, near Lowell, Mass., and for about forty years afterward its cultivation was confined to that immediate neighborhood. Eventually the farm came into the possession of a Mr. Butters, who gave the apple the name Woodpecker or Pecker, and it was also called Butters. Deacon Samuel Thompson, a surveyor of Wolburn, brought it to the attention of Colonel Baldwin of the same town, by whom it was propagated and more widely introduced in eastern Massachusetts as early as 1784. From Colonel Baldwin's interest in the variety it came to be called the Baldwin. In 1817 the original tree was still alive, but it perished between 1817 and 1832. A monument to the Baldwin apple now marks the location.

On the Night Shift.

Nighthawks and whippoorwills work chiefly at night, when most of the other birds are off duty, and at daybreak their good work is taken up by the swifts and swallows, says Nature magazine of Washington. These birds are provided with big scapnet mouths, and as they swing through the air over wide areas of country, they scoop up almost unbelievable numbers of insects. Six hundred were taken from the stomach of a single Arkansas nighthawk.

Over $7500.00 for Grape-Nuts Recipes

The Postum Cereal Company will buy not less than 101 Recipes or suggestions for new Uses of Grape-Nuts, paying $50.00 for each one accepted. And in addition—

Good Housekeeping Institute, conducted by Good Housekeeping Magazine, will decide an award of $2500.00 for the best four of the 101 or more Recipes or suggestions for new Uses of Grape-Nuts, so purchased:

$1000.00 for the 1st selection $750.00 for the 2nd selection

$500.00 for the 3rd selection $250.00 for the 4th selection

Read carefully the terms of this offer so that you may have the fullest opportunity to share in its benefits. The conditions are so simple and fair that every housewife in the United States can take part in this National Recipe Festival!

There Is No Other Food Like Grape-Nuts

WHILE practically every man, woman and child in the English-speaking world knows Grape-Nuts as a delicious, nourishing and wholesome cereal, and while it is common knowledge that Grape-Nuts with milk or cream is a complete food, many housewives do not know of the appetizing and economical dishes that can be prepared with Grape-Nuts. It lends itself, we believe, to more uses than any other cereal. The convenience and economy of Grape-Nuts, and the flavor, zest and wholesomeness which it imparts to other food, make it invaluable in every home.

Frequently we receive interesting letters from women throughout the country, telling about the attractive dishes they make with Grape-Nuts—delicious puddings, salads, dressings for fowls, etc. No doubt there are thousands of women who are finding varied uses for Grape-Nuts in their home cooking, and even more thousands who will be glad to learn of those varied uses; for while we all cling to old favorite dishes, we also welcome and enjoy a change.

So that is the thought back of our offer of more than $7500.00 in cash for new ways of using Grape-Nuts. To those women who are already using Grape-Nuts in various ways, other than as a breakfast cereal or in the recipes given here, and to those women who would like to try their hand at developing some new way to use Grape-Nuts, we offer to buy at $50.00 each not less than 101 new Grape-Nuts Recipes. We plan to include these new Recipes in a beautifully illustrated cook book.

What Is Grape-Nuts?

Grape-Nuts is a highly nutritious food in the form of crisp, golden granules. It contains the full nutriment of wheat and barley, including vitamin-B and mineral elements required for building sturdy health. These elements are often lacking in the ordinary diet, chiefly through "over-refinement" in the preparation of food.

No other food is so thoroughly baked as Grape-Nuts. More than 20 hours are consumed in the baking process which makes Grape-Nuts easy to digest, and also develops a natural sweetness from the grains themselves.

The form and crispness of Grape-Nuts invite thorough mastication—a decided advantage because this not only provides proper exercise for the teeth, but makes for good digestion.

Every housewife in the Land should take advantage of this extraordinary opportunity to earn the tidy sum of $50.00 by a little pleasant and educational effort in her own home. Also the fair and equal chance to secure one of the liberal awards to be made by Good Housekeeping Institute.

Moreover, there's the greater knowledge of the value of Grape-Nuts, not only as a delicious breakfast cereal, but in the preparation of a variety of appetizing dishes that add to the health and pleasure of the whole family.

Conditions Governing the Purchase of, and Awards for Grape-Nuts Recipes

The Postum Cereal Company will buy not less than 101 Recipes or suggestions for new Uses of Grape-Nuts, paying $50.00 for each one accepted. This offer is open to every person in the United States.

Good Housekeeping Institute, conducted by Good Housekeeping Magazine, will decide an award of $2500.00 for the best four of the 101 or more Recipes or suggestions for new Uses of Grape-Nuts, so purchased: $1000.00 for the 1st selection; $750.00 for the 2nd selection; $500.00 for the 3rd selection; and $250.00 for the 4th selection.

Recipes must be mailed between May 1st, 1923 and August 31st, 1923.

Recipes or suggestions for new uses submitted for purchase must not duplicate any of the ten Recipes printed in this announcement.

No Recipe will be purchased from anyone directly or indirectly connected with the Postum Cereal Company, Inc., or Good Housekeeping Institute.

If more than one Recipe is offered, each must be written on a separate sheet. Write name and address plainly on each Recipe submitted.

In the event of a tie for any award offered, an award identical in all respects with that tied for will be made to each one tying.

It is not necessary to purchase Grape-Nuts. A suitable quantity will be sent upon request to those desiring to submit recipes.

Your Recipe should state the exact number intended to be served. Recipes should be carefully tested to make sure that proportions and directions for preparing will bring best results.

Form of Recipe: First, write name of your Recipe at top of sheet; underneath list all ingredients, using level measurements only; then the directions for preparing, worded simply and accurately. Do not send specimen dish.

In considering Recipes for purchase, and for awards by Good Housekeeping Institute, account will be taken of the following points:

(a) Palatability.
(b) Simplicity and economy.
(c) Accuracy and clearness of expression of recipe.

Announcement of the Recipes purchased, and Awards by Good Housekeeping Institute, will be made in January Good Housekeeping.

Recipes submitted to the Postum Cereal Company for purchase will not be returned.

All Recipes must be addressed to

RECIPE DEPARTMENT

Postum Cereal Company, Inc., Battle Creek, Michigan.

Below are ten Recipes showing a few of the many appetizing dishes that can be made with Grape-Nuts. Read them over, try some of them, and then you will find it easy to work out a new Recipe or think of a new use for Grape-Nuts, that we may purchase. And remember, your Recipe or suggestion for new use of Grape-Nuts may also merit one of the large awards.

GRAPE-NUTS Ice Cream

Prepare plain flavored ice cream in the usual way. Just before the cream hardens in freezing, add Grape-Nuts as it comes from the package, in the proportion of one-half cup of Grape-Nuts to one quart of ice cream. If you buy ice cream ready made, add Grape-Nuts in place of nutmeats. You'll find the resulting flavor unique.

GRAPE-NUTS Salad

1 cup Grape-Nuts
1 sliced orange
½ cup cubed pineapple
2 cubed bananas
2 teaspoons lemon-juice
Cream Salad Dressing

Cut up the fruit, add lemon-juice, mix with Grape-Nuts, and serve on bed of lettuce with Cream Salad Dressing. Makes four to six portions.

GRAPE-NUTS Six Minute Pudding

1 cup Grape-Nuts
1½ cups scalded milk
1 tablespoon sugar
½ cup raisins

Cover Grape-Nuts with scalded milk. Add sugar, raisins, and a little nutmeg. Cook six minutes directly over the heat, stirring constantly, and serve with any good pudding sauce. Makes four to six portions.

GRAPE-NUTS Cookies

1 cup Grape-Nuts
½ cup shortening
1¼ cups light brown sugar
½ cup milk
2 well-beaten eggs
2¼ cups flour
2 teaspoons baking-powder
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon cloves
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup chopped seeded raisins

Cream shortening and sugar. Add milk and well-beaten eggs. Add well-sifted dry ingredients, and raisins that have been dusted with part of the flour, and then the Grape-Nuts. Beat thoroughly and drop from a spoon on baking sheet one and one-half inches apart. Bake in a moderate oven for fifteen minutes.

GRAPE-NUTS Cheese Casserole

¾ cup Grape-Nuts
1½ cups milk
1 tablespoon butter
¼ teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
1¼ cups chopped American cheese
2 eggs
Few grains paprika

Scald the milk. Add Grape-Nuts, butter and seasonings and combine with the cheese and eggs, the latter slightly beaten. Pour into a buttered baking dish, surround with hot water and bake slowly for forty-five minutes in a slow oven. Serve as the main course at luncheon, supper, or a meatless dinner. Makes four to six portions.

GRAPE-NUTS Fruit Pudding

1 cup Grape-Nuts
1 package lemon Jell-O or lemon flavored gelatine
1 pint boiling water
½ cup seeded raisins or chopped dates

Add the boiling water to the Jell-O or lemon flavored gelatine and stir until it is dissolved. Pour into a mould, and after the mixture has cooled slightly, add the Grape-Nuts and fruit; then allow the mixture to chill and harden. Makes four to six portions.

GRAPE-NUTS Meat Loaf

1 cup Grape-Nuts
1 pound veal, mutton or beef
½ pound salt pork
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons milk
1 egg
½ tablespoon lemon-juice
2 tablespoons tomato catsup
½ tablespoon chopped parsley
½ minced onion

Put the meat through a food chopper, add seasonings. Brown minced onion in a little fat before adding Grape-Nuts, milk, and slightly beaten eggs. Pack in a baking dish, shaping like a loaf of baked bread and smooth evenly on top. Bake for forty-five minutes, basting frequently using one-half cup of hot water, a tablespoon at a time. Just before taking from oven, brush with some of the beaten white of egg and a little milk. Brown for one minute. Makes four portions.

GRAPE-NUTS Loaf Cake

1 cup Grape-Nuts
½ cup butter
1½ cups sugar
3 eggs
1 cup milk
2½ cups Pastry flour
2 teaspoons baking-powder
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon vanilla

Cream butter and sugar; add egg-yolks well beaten; then milk and Grape-Nuts. Beat the mixture thoroughly, fold in alternately the stiffly beaten egg-whites and flour sifted with baking-powder three times; lastly, add the vanilla. Have cake pan previously greased and lightly floured; fill two-thirds full and bake in a moderate oven for forty-five minutes.

GRAPE-NUTS Tomato Soup

¼ cup Grape-Nuts
1 quart tomatoes
2 cups water
10 peppercorns
1 sliced onion
2 teaspoons salt
⅛ teaspoon soda
4 whole cloves
3 tablespoons butter

Cook tomatoes, water and seasonings twenty minutes; strain and add salt and soda. Crush the Grape-Nuts with a rolling pin. Melt the butter, add the rolled Grape-Nuts, combine and heat the soup to the boiling point. Substitute whole Grape-Nuts for croutons in serving individual soup plates. Makes four to six portions.

GRAPE-NUTS Fudge

½ cup Grape-Nuts
2 cups granulated sugar
1 cup milk
2 squares chocolate
½ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons butter
½ teaspoon vanilla

Combine the sugar, milk, chocolate and salt; place over a slow heat, and stir constantly until the sugar is dissolved. Then continue boiling gently, without stirring, until the thermometer registers 238 degrees F., or the mixture forms a soft ball when dropped in cold water. Set the pan in bowl of cold water and allow to stand undisturbed until there is no heat in the fudge mixture. Remove and add the butter and vanilla. Beat the mixture until creamy and thick, then add Grape-Nuts and continue beating until stiff enough to knead. Turn out on a buttered plate and cut into desired squares.

CONVENIENCE IN ANY HOUSEHOLD

Serving Tray Saves Housewife's Time and Strength in Many Different Ways.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

A serving tray on castors or wheels, sometimes called a "wheel-tray," "tea-wagon," or "tea-cart," is a household convenience that saves the housewife's time and strength in many ways. A boy or man handy with simple tools can make one; a number of women, similarly skillful, have also made them. In a Virginia home recently a very successful wheel-tray was made out of an old washstand, utilizing the large drawer, the top, the framework, and other parts. To roll such a tray around conveniently, swivel castors may be provided from some discarded piece of furniture, small swivel wheels or the small wheels of a baby carriage or toy wagon. In the serving tray illustrated the wheels were evidently taken from a child's wagon. A wheel tray saves many trips between the dining room and kitchen, both in serving and in clearing away meals, especially in a large household where many dishes must be handled. The top and shelf spaces are sufficient to carry all dishes to the table in one trip, or to remove them from it after the meal. Steps are saved by it in serving refreshments at social occasions. It is invaluable for use as a bedside tray in the sick room. When well made the tray is attractive as well as useful and may serve as a reading table or flower stand. It may be stained dark or enameled white to harmonize with the dining room and its furnishings. The space in the top may be used to keep dishes in, and the drawer will store silver and table linen.

Dimensions for Tray.

The United States Department of Agriculture recommends the dimensions given below for making a convenient serving tray which will go through doorways without danger of bumping. The upper part of the tray is box shaped, 16 inches wide and 26 inches long. The box part, or china compartment, is 4½ inches deep. This is upheld by 4 legs, ⅝ by 1⅝ inches, which measure 31 inches from the floor to the top of the tray. It is best to edge the top of the tray or the lid of the china compartment by a molding 1¼ inches wide to prevent dishes from slipping off. The inside of the china compartment is painted white even if the outside of the tray is dark. On the sides of this compartment are little screw hooks on which cups may be hung. There is space in the compartment for serving dishes for six.

Drawer Is Useful to Store Silver and Table Linen.

Drawer for Silver or Linen.

Below this serving compartment is a drawer 2 inches deep, which is divided into two parts. One side is used for linen and one side for silver. The side used for silver is lined with dark-colored felt or outing flannel.

In the space below the drawer a large undershelf is fitted. It should be edged with molding about 1¼ inches wide, so that soiled dishes may be safely placed on it. One handle may be put on if preferred, instead of the two shown in the illustration, for pulling or pushing the loaded tray about. These handles may be made from old broomsticks.

Cleanse Marble Slab.

To cleanse the marble slab cut a slice of lemon, dip it in salt and rub it over the marble; let it remain an hour, then wash the slab in the usual way. A mixture of saleratus and whiting will remove stains from marble.

Warm a Knife-Board.

Warm a knife-board before using it, and the knives will polish more easily. Should the cover of a knife-board wear through, a piece of linoleum may be used to replace it.

DIFFERENT WAYS TO PREPARE VEGETABLES

Special Care Should Be Taken to Preserve Peculiar Characteristic of Each Dish.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Boiling vegetables, although so common and usual a method, is only one of a variety of ways in which they may be prepared for the table. Each vegetable has certain characteristics for which it is liked, and the endeavor in serving should be to emphasize the best qualities. If it is served because of its crisp texture, or its attractive color, or its distinctive flavor, or because it contains some particularly nutritious substance, special care should be taken to preserve that characteristic.

The method of cooking selected depends somewhat on the place of the vegetable in the menu. A fried vegetable, or one baked in combination with a protein-rich material may be in texture and flavor an excellent substitute for meat.

Young green peas have a delicacy of flavor and freshness of color that should be preserved by gentle, rather than violent cooking. Many persons eat raw celery for its crispness; therefore, after it is washed it should be put in a cold place so that it will have that texture. Since spinach is often recommended for children because of its vitamins and its high proportion of iron, every effort should be made to preserve these. Moreover, the method that brings out the good points of a vegetable generally conserves the food value.

In general, vegetables should be cooked in small quantities of water to which salt has been added in the proportion of about one teaspoonful to a quart of water. Cabbage, onions, and other strong-flavored kinds, are sometimes exceptions to this rule and are cooked either in large quantities of water or even in two or three waters so that the flavor will be milder. If the cooking water is saved to flavor soups or sauces, there is no loss of minerals.

Spinach, lettuce, and other tender leaf vegetables can be cooked without the addition of any water. They are succulent enough themselves and have enough water clinging to them after being washed so that they will not stick to the kettle if stirred carefully and not placed over too hot a fire at first.

Some of the delicately flavored vegetables may be cooked by what has been called the "conservation" method. They are cooked slowly and gently in just enough water to prevent them from burning, and all this water is absorbed during the process. This often is recommended for green peas, string beans, and young carrots.

Whenever possible vegetables should be cooked whole and without peeling. This applies particularly to the root and tuber kinds. If they must be cut, they lose less of their nutritious substances when cut lengthwise rather than crosswise.

The water for cooking vegetables should be boiling when they are put into it. This helps to set the color of some kinds and shortens the time of cooking so that a smaller proportion of the mineralis is extracted than when cold water is used.

Starchy vegetables should be boiled gently in a covered kettle; green vegetables hold their attractive color better if cooked in an open vessel.

All boiled vegetables should be drained as soon as they are tender. Overcooking is one of the most common mistakes in preparing vegetables for the table.

The time of cooking varies greatly with the quantity of water used and the kind, size, and age of the vegetables. The following time-table is recommended by the experimental kitchen of the United States Department of Agriculture to be used as a general guide:

Time-Table for Cooking.

Asparagus	15-20 minutes
Beans, lima (green)	45-60 minutes
Beans, string	1-3 hours
Beets, old	3-4 hours
Beets, young	45-60 minutes
Cabbage	20-30 minutes
Carrots	30-60 minutes
Cauliflower	20-30 minutes
Corn, green	10-15 minutes
Onions	20-20 minutes
Parsnips	30-45 minutes
Peas, green	20-30 minutes
Potatoes	20-40 minutes
Spinach	15-30 minutes
Squash	20-30 minutes
Turnips	30-45 minutes

Relics of Old Civilization.

Ruined remains of a very ancient civilization, much older than the Egyptian, have been found on the Kola peninsula, in Lapland, between the Arctic ocean and the White sea. This announcement is made in a dispatch from Petrograd which says a Russian expedition, led by Professor Bartsenko, has just returned with news of the discovery. Pyramid-shaped tombs were found, and there were traces of dwellings and temples reared long before the days of Tutankhamen.

Slayer Murders Family He Suspected of Stealing Hat

London.—A farm laborer named Bonuefemme, who recently murdered four members of a family named Ducasse, for whom he was working, in a village near Toulouse, when confronted with the bodies of his victims—the farmer and his wife and the farmer's parents—showed no regret, and declared that he had shot them all with a gun because he suspected one of them of having stolen his hat, says the Paris correspondent of the London Daily Express.

GIRL SPY CHAINED TO ROCKS AND LEFT TO DIE

Vengeance Wreaked on Red Agent Is Discovered in Cave by Peasant.

London.—The skeleton of a beautiful girl spy chained to a rock and left to die of starvation has been discovered at Hotin, Bessarabia, writes the Berlin correspondent of the London Daily Express.

A peasant who sought refuge from a storm in a cavern was horror-stricken to see a human skeleton secured by chains riveted into the walls of the cavern. A notebook, half-buried by leaves, revealed the story of Russian vengeance.

The girl was Magdalene Frisch, the daughter of a Jewish chemist of Petracow, Poland. She was the fiancee of the Russian airman Savro, who under her influence entered the German spy service, and later became a Bolshevist spy in the armies of Deniken and Wrangel.

Magdalena carried messages from Savro to the Bolsheviks, in which the military dispositions of Deniken and Wrangel were disclosed. Every effort was made to discover the source of the disastrous leakage, but without success until Savro was wounded while serving with Petlura. Papers were then found on the airman which revealed not only his treachery, but the part played by his fiancee.

Savro was shot, but Magdalena made good her escape. She was recognized some time afterwards in the street at Hotin and kidnaped. Her captors carried her to the lonely cavern, chained her to the rock, and left her to die.

The girl set down in her notebook full details of what had occurred, and then, in order to escape the tortures of starvation, took poison, with which one of her more compassionate executioners had supplied her.

The notebook is dated "October 23, 1921."

FINDS HUSBAND'S DEAD BODY

Remains of Man, Dead About a Month, Discovered in Box in Tinsmith Shop.

New York.—The body of Charles G. Service was found jammed in a box behind the counter of his tinsmithing shop in Brooklyn, by his wife, Mrs. Mary Carden Service and Louis Struttwolf. An ambulance surgeon said that the man had been dead about a month.

The box is about four and a half feet long, two feet deep and two feet high. It was closed and the hasp was down over the staple when Struttwolf unlocked the door of the shop and found it behind the counter. Probably nothing will be known of the manner or cause of death until an autopsy has been performed.

Mrs. Service told the police that her husband frequently left her and stayed away for weeks at a time and that the last time he went away was two and a half months ago. She visited his shop several times, but found the door locked, and Struttwolf, who had a key, was notified. He unlocked the door and the body was found.

REDHEAD

By HILDA LOENSON

(©, 1923, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

HARRY CREWE, or "Brother," as most of the villagers knew him, was sweet-tempered and, oh, so youthful. His red hair, instead of causing merriment, resulted in tolerant admiration because he never allowed himself to become angry when teased about his curly, soft, red mass of hair.

"Brother," said his older sister, with an amused air, "I'd like to tell you that your hair is just the color of a newly-ripening tomato—if I thought it would affect you in the least. But it's no fun teasing you—you're too tame!"

Brother, just turned twenty, blushed, started to retort, thought better of it, and removed himself from his sister's presence.

Bethlia Maxham, Lippit's only really beautiful girl, was "coming out" the same year that Brother's hair was turning that ripe tomato shade of red. Her first party was scheduled for the balmy month of May, while her first evening dress was to be a vision of the delicate color of the Mayflower, combined with the choicest selection of silver lace.

Brother gazed at Bethlia with worshiping eyes as she led the way into the parlor. He was the last arrival.

He danced, absent-mindedly, with several of the slightly pretty girls who deigned to become his partner. However, his eyes ever roved around to discover the exact location of his hostess.

Finally he became desperate and, approaching Bethlia, asked huskily: "Bethlia, may—may I have this dance?"

Bethlia thought—then very apologetically, "I'm so sorry. I have the next ones taken. Later in the evening I will be free."

Brother sighed and asked some one named Ruth to pick up his discarded offer. In the midst of their dancing Ruth giggled. "You're a funny boy, Red-head!"

"Huh?" Brother miscalculated his distance and tripped over his fair partner's slipper.

"It made me laugh awful hard," continued Ruth. "There was Beth wearing a pink dress and you with your flaming hair come and ask her to dance. Didn't you know Beth has such fine senses that that wouldn't do at all? Anyway, she told me she doesn't like red hair!"

Brother stopped short. "Is that true?"

Ruth nodded her head seriously. "Don't tell—" but her partner had deserted her in the middle of the floor to disappear into the poolroom, where his face scorched and burned unheeded.

Ruth angered, followed him to his lair. "What do you mean by leaving me?" she began, assuming the attitude of an attacking tigress.

"Shut up!" shouted Brother, impolitely, as he picked up a cue and aimed it threateningly at her.

Ruth retreated hastily.

A little later Bethlia, coming in in search of her father, discovered Brother flung across the pool table, his form motionless.

"Brother! Harry!" There was intense feeling in her voice as she shook him roughly.

Brother raised his head. "Leave me alone," he muttered thickly. "Leave me alone before your dress catches fire and destroys your fine senses—get out!"

"Harry!" exclaimed Bethlia, hurt—her pretty face working convulsively. "Don't you feel well?"

Brother shook her slender white hands from his shoulders as he burst out: "Can't you leave me alone? You'll get burnt! You'll get burnt! Bah!" All his feelings were given vent in that one word, "bah!" after which he flung himself from the room and the house.

The next morning Mary carried up an envelope, sweetly scented with Mayflower, before Brother had got out of bed. She smiled slyly. "Can't guess who brought this!"

To her acute astonishment, Brother snatched the envelope from her hand and growled, "Get out!" Mary went, stricken dumb.

"Dear Harry" (read the message), "I was puzzled over your behavior last night until Ruth told me about the joke she played on you. Believe me, Harry, I was hurt because you left without giving me one dance. Please consider this an apology for my seeming coolness. "Bethlia."

Half an hour later Brother had burst into the Maxham residence. A few minutes later he was in the parlor, on the couch, beside Bethlia.

His eyes were eloquent.

"You didn't think that about my hair?"

"No," answered Bethlia, quietly.

"You meant every word you wrote in that letter?"

"Yes." Her voice was not quite so steady.

Suddenly, perhaps at the poignancy of that single word, Brother's boldness left him. Riotous color flooded his cheeks, his neck, his forehead. He reached for his hat, her hand; squeezed both convulsively and then ran for the door.

"Are you going so soon?" asked Bethlia, disappointment in her tone.

"Yes'm—er—see you tonight! Goo'-by!"

INSIDE PAGE OF JOURNALISM

Same Thing Has Been Known to Exist in Other Cities Besides the French Capital.

Some years ago there were in Paris two papers, the Razor and the Scorpion, which were always attacking each other. Every week people bought the Razor to read how it cut at the Scorpion and then purchased the Scorpion to learn how it stung the Razor.

A certain philanthropist, feeling pained to see such animosity displayed, invited the two editors to dine in the hope that over a good fare he could make peace between them. At the appointed time one lean, melancholy man presented himself and was ushered in. After an interval, as no other guest appeared, the host demanded:

"May I ask, are you the editor of the Razor or the Scorpion?"

"Both," said the sad-eyed man.—Sheffield (Eng.) Telegraph.

Short Sentence Responsible for Fact That This Man Was Not in the Millionaire Class.

Heard at the dance:

"What happens if you do not tell the truth?" asked the judge.

"'You are French, aren't you?' the applicant demanded.

"I speak the language," I admitted, "but I am an American."

"'You follow the French slogan, anyway,' he insisted. 'You follow the French command that "they shall not pass" anyway.'"—New York Herald.

Electricity to Heat Water.

An electric appliance has been invented that can be connected to a light socket and placed over the end of any faucet to heat the water as it flows out.

Looks that speak volumes never talk like a book.

Why divide the family at breakfast?

WHY take coffee for yourself, while saying "No" to the children? It is true, as most parents are careful to explain, that little folks should not endanger health and growth through the drug element in coffee and tea, but—

Your health is valuable, too—and their desire for a hot drink with breakfast may be as great as yours.

There's complete satisfaction in Postum, and safety alike for young and old. Postum is a pure cereal beverage. It is coffee-like in color and flavor, but free from any element that can harm. Thousands who are now saying "No" to themselves as well as to the children, as a safeguard against coffee-ills, have found better comfort and better health, in Postum.

Your grocer sells Postum in two forms: Instant Postum (in tins) prepared instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages) for those who prefer the flavor brought out by boiling fully 20 minutes. The cost of either is about one-half cent a cup.

BLAIR COUNTY'S PARADISE

Wide Acres of Brua Orchards Very Beautiful Now.

The following from the Altoona Mirror indicates a natural beauty that any of our readers would certainly enjoy sbould they have the opportunity to motor to the Brua orchards:

Several residents of Hollidaysburg, guided by L. A. Brua, Sr., made a tour over the Brua fruit orchards near Franks town. It proved to be a trip to fairyland, and there nature, adorned in her gorgeous robes, made the party welcome. Mr. Brua took his friends up to a high knoll in the orchard, and from that point could ve viewed a scene of unsurpassed splendor.

Fully 5,000 peach trees covered with blossoms, waving in the gentle breeze, appeared like great pink billows, while in four directions aisles of blossoms, streets of fairyland, lead over hill and dale, and far to the left was a vast field of dazzling white where 2,500 pear trees were holding aloft countless numbers of blossom clusters, waving and dipping in the breeze like tossing plumes of restless cavalry.

On every side were scenes of wonderful beauty that can be equaled nowhere in this part of the state.

Near the farm house were long uniform rows of what appeared to be markers for a buried army; but Mr. Brua assured the party that the markers were stakes, each one holding up a grape vine in his newly planted vineyard.

After making a delightful trip through the orchard the party returned home well pleased with their journey to Balir County's garden of Paradise.

Preached Initial Sermon.

Rev. Phil S. Baird, Jr., a student at Princeton Theological Seminary, preached his initial sermon in the Beech Creek Presbyterian church last Sunday. Rev. Baird will preach in the Beech Creek and Mill Hall Presbyterian churches for several months while Rev. Louis V. Barber, formerly at Pine Grove Mills, is on a leave of absence in quest of better health.

Wheat Looks Better.

Since the recent rains, the wheat looks better although there are many fields where a bumper crop cannot be expected, the dry weather having caused spots, already thin on account of freezing, that will decrease the yield. It is very unusual to find wheat that surpasses that in Nittany valley but Bald Eagle wheat looks better this spring.

CAUGHT BEAR CUBS

Girl Alone Uses Good Judgment and Secures Pets.

If you met a mother bear and her three cubs while hiking in the woods just what would you do?

Miss Jennie Hubler, a girl residing in Graham Twp., Clearfield County, did the right thing. She was walking in a woods near her home and unexpectedly spied a mother bear and her three cubs last Thursday evening, according to the Philipsburg Journal. She just stood still while Mother Bruin gave her the once over and then scampered from sight, followed by one cub. The other cubs ran up a tree and Miss Hubler stood guard at the foot of the tree for four hoars.

Her brother, Wilbur Hubler, then heard her calls for aid and came to her. They caught the cubs and took them home for pets. Daring the four hours that Miss Hubler stood guard, the mother bear and the cub which followed her, did not return.

Sugar Boycott.

The tendency of persons to curtail use of sugar in the home is said to be bringing down the price of sugar in some cities and should be nation-wide. It is claimed that the boost in sugar prices is directly due to speculation and not supply and demand, it being pointed out that there was a good sugar crop last year, much of which is still held for distribution.

Nearly Everybody Has Auto.

Circus day was a good time to estimate how many cars are owned by families residing in and nearby Bellefonte. Indications were that there is an auto for nearly every family in the county. And the models—why so many were never shown even in the big auto shows in the cities. Such a crowd has not been in Bellefonte for a long time.

OVER THE COUNTY

The Hagen carpenter crew, of Farmers Mills, are among the workmen engaged in the building boom at State College.

Forest fire on the Muncy mountain, just north of Bellefonte, started on Sunday and burned over several acres of ground.

John H. Burkholder and J. Cloyd Brooks, farmers who reside near Centre Hall, each lost by death a valuable horse purchased at one of the recent sales of Western horses. Both were nice looking animals.

H. R. Treaster, the blacksmith with a shop south of Millheim, recently submitted to an operation for hernia under Dr. H. H. Longwell, of Centre Hall. The operation seems to have been successful and the blacksmith is reported as doing nicely.

Potatoes are being shipped out of Penn's valley by the car load. Several carloads have been shipped the past month. This is the time of the year when those carried over from last season must be moved. They are beginning to sprout. New potatoes are coming from southern markets, but the price is rather high, from 10 to 12 cents per pound.

Kryder Miller, of Centre Hall, the Franklin and Marshall student, who had his foot painfully crushed when returning home for his Easter vacation, is now able to hobble about at the hospital by using crutches. The physician now expects to pull the young man through without loss of his foot, pleasing news to his many friends.

James Runkle, of Tusseyville, has been seriously ill from pneumonia.

H. H. Leitzel, a Millheim huckster, is erecting a summer camp bungalow in the narrows east of the first tunnel near Coburn.

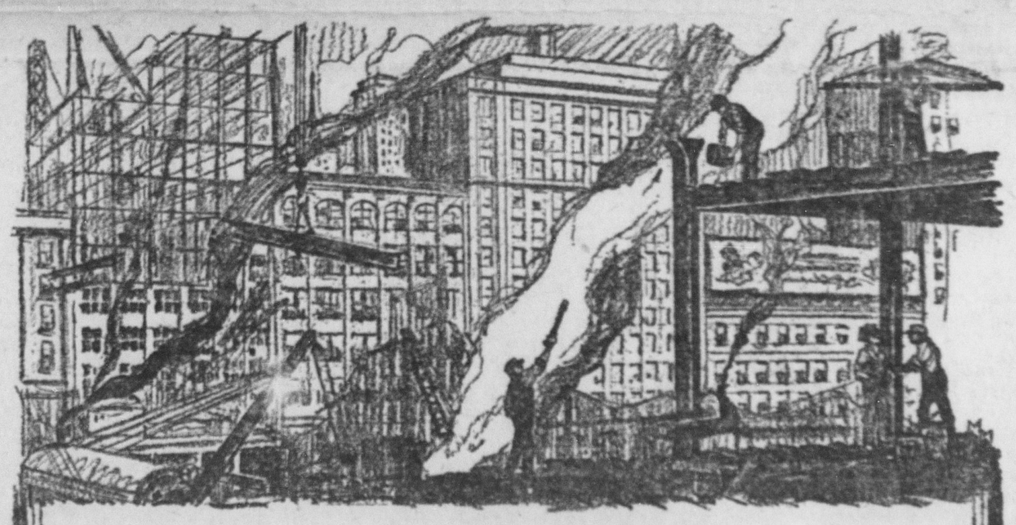
At a recent meeting of the Millheim Council it was voted to bid for $12,000 worth of municipal bonds to the State School Employes' Retirement Board.

Porter G. Snyder, of Millheim, a local banker, recently had 300 peach trees planted on a tract of mountain land which he had purchased from Mrs. Mary E. Shull.

Samuel L. Hubler, of Rebersburg, formerly successful as a teacher in the public schools in Penn's valley, has been selected as successor to Miss Ethel Rowe as clerk in the Farmers National Bank at Millheim.

The United Brethren Sunday School at Bellefonte on Sunday morning selected Thursday, July 26, as their picnic day. The picnic will be held at Hecla Park and it was said on Sunday that the only other Thursday available was July 5.

A colony chicken house, in which 160 chicks had just been placed a few hours previously, was burned to the ground, all the chicks being destroyed and a nearby hog-pen was also burned on the W. N. Duck farm near of Millheim. No hogs were burned. The fire occurred at night and the buildings were nearly burned to the ground before the blaze was discovered by Willis Breon, who awakened the Duck family from their slumbers.



FIFTEEN NEW BUILDINGS WILL BE ADDED TO THE BELL SYSTEM IN PENNSYLVANIA THIS YEAR

AND this does not include twenty large additions to present central office buildings.

Nearly four millions of dollars will be spent on building construction alone.

Millions of dollars' worth of equipment will be placed in them—switchboards, cables, terminal room apparatus, and other central office mechanisms.

We spent three millions for land and buildings last year, but the growing needs for telephone service in Pennsylvania make necessary a continuation of this tremendous construction program.

Mrs. Susan R. Heckman Dead.

Mrs. Susan Reeser Heckman, widow of Daniel Heckman, for many years well known residents of Bellefonte, died on Friday afternoon in Wilkinsburg at the home of her daughter, Mrs. C. G. Spicher. She had been making her home with her daughter for about 5 years. Mr. Heckman preceded her to the grave about 7 years ago. She had not been in good health the past winter and suffered a stroke on Tuesday. Born in Penn's valley, she was 73 years old. Most of her life was spent in Bellefonte where she had a wide circle of friends. She was a member of the Reformed church. Surviving are her daughter, Mrs. Spicher; three step-children: Miss Della Heckman, of Wilkinsburg; Mrs. J. W. Beezer and Clayton Heckman, of Bellefonte; two brothers: William, of Bucyrus, O.; George, of Windber, and one sister, Mrs. Willis Sholl, of Bellefonte. The remains were brought to Bellefonte on Monday on the afternoon flyer arriving here at 1:26 and the funeral was held from the train, with burial in Union cemetery.

Burial of Fred Leathers.

The body of Fred Leathers, formerly of Howard, who died at Dallas, Texas, February 21, and which was temporarily buried at Muskogee, Oklahoma, was brought to Howard Monday and taken directly to the Howard cemetery where final burial was made. Services at the grave were conducted by Rev. A. Lawrence Miller, of Lewistown, formerly pastor of Trinity Methodist church, of Lock Haven. Mrs. Leathers was accompanied east by J. T. and A. C. Leathers of Kansas City, Mo., brothers of the deceased. Mr. and Mrs. George Leathers, of Tyrone, C. B. Snyder, of Washington, D. C.; Miss Corinne I. Snyder, of Lock Haven, and Mrs. H. D. Jordan, of Allentown, also attended the funeral. Mrs. Leathers will remain at Howard for several days after which she will go to Allentown, her former home.

Frank B. Houck Dead.

Frank B. Houck, a son of Rev. William Houck, of Carlisle, who at one time resided in Bellefonte where the family is well known, died on Monday night at the Misercordia Hospital, in Philadelphia. He had been ill but a short time. At the time of his passing away he was 46 years old. During the World War he served in the officers' training school at Fort Niagara, later being transferred to Camp Meade and subsequently going overseas. He is survived by his father, two sisters, Mrs. Henry M. Stine and Mrs. William T. Hildrup, Jr., of Harrisburg, also by two brothers, Charles, of Hazelton, and Herbert, of Carlisle.

Mrs. Sarah Williams Dead.

Mrs Sarah Katherine Conser Williams died at the home of her son, H. Bruner Williams, near Salona, on Sunday morning from complications. She was 80 years old and is survived by four sons of two marriages: H. Bruner Williams, of near Salona; Frank Williams, of Mill Hall; William Conser, of Howard; Kline Conser, of Beech Creek. Funeral services were held on Wednesday and burial made in Cedar Hill cemetery.

Chas. Heisler Dead.

Charles Heisler, one of the most widely known residents of Bellefonte and for many years a tip-stave at the Court House, died at his home on Thomas St. on Saturday evening at 8 o'clock after a long illness from complications. He is survived by his widow, three brothers and one sister. Funeral services were held on Tuesday and burial made in Union cemetery.

James E. Geisinger Dead.

James E. Geisinger, a retired Pennsylvania freight conductor, died at the home of a daughter, Mrs. George Renner, in Altoona, on last Thursday morning. Deceased was born at Mill Creek, Oct. 27, 1848. Mrs. Hannah Dean, of State College, is a sister.

D. H. Krebs Dead.

D. H. Krebs, a well known and highly respected citizen, passed away at his home near State College on Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. His health had been failing the past year. He was suffering from prostration and other trouble but was only confined to bed for several weeks. Deceased was born at White Hall on New Year's day, 1861. All his life was spent on a farm. At Christmas time in 1890 he was united in marriage to Miss M. Corl, a daughter of the late Peter Corl. The result of this union was two sons, Clayton and Abram, both at home, who with the widow are sad over the death of a loving father and husband and a good citizen in every way. There also survives one brother, F. B., of State College, and one sister, Elizabeth. Some two years ago, he quit the farm and made sale of his stock to become one of "Pop" Goodling's trustees, residing on the Hiram Thompson farm, one of the college owned farms. He was a member of the Reformed church. Services were held in the Pine Hill church, after which burial was made in the nearby cemetery. His pastor, Rev. S. C. Stover officiated.

Ernest Royer Dead.

Ernest Royer, a member of the class of 1923, Penn State, died at the home of his parents early on Tuesday morning from inflammation of the brain. The young man studied very earnestly and had been ill for about one year, following an attack of influenza, both of which are supposed to have contributed to his death. He was a son of E. E. and Mrs. Anna Royer, who survive, with three brothers, Harry, John and George, and one sister, Miss Carrie, all at home. The funeral services will be held on Thursday afternoon and burial made at Pine Hall.

George Adams Bair Dead.

George Adams Bair, a native of Rebersburg, died at the home of his brother, William H. Bair, in Altoona, on Saturday afternoon. Deceased was born at Rebersburg on April 18, 1869. He is survived by his father, W. J. Bair, of Rebersburg; two sisters: Mrs. Ira Gramly, of Tollepill; Mrs. A. N. Wolf, of Missouri, and the brother mentioned. Funeral services were held on Tuesday and burial made at Altoona.

Elias Comfort Dead.

Elias Comfort, one of the older residents of State College, died on Sunday evening at his home from infirmities due to his advanced age. He was 90 years old on March 18. The deceased was very widely known in that section of the county. He was a member of the Lutheran church. His first wife died many years ago and he married Mrs. D. S. Erb eighteen years ago, who survives. One son, Charles, of Northboro, Iowa, also survives. There are four step-children, two in the west and E. S. Erb and Mrs. J. B. Heberling, both of State College. Funeral services were held on Tuesday by Rev. Harkness, pastor of the Lutheran church at State College, and Rev. Traub, a former pastor now of York. The body was then taken to Northboro, Iowa, for burial, and was accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Heberling.

Mrs. A. G. Hale Dead.

Mrs. A. G. Hale, who had occupied apartments at the Nittany Inn, State College, died on Tuesday morning from complications. Deceased was the widow of W. W. Hale and was formerly a resident of South Philipsburg. The body was sent to Reading on Wednesday afternoon for burial.

Charles L. Armsby Dead.

Charles L. Armsby, a son of the late Prof. Armsby, of Penn State, died in Florida on last Thursday. He was prominent in railroad circles. Four brothers survive. The five brothers all served in France in the World war. The body will be brought to State College for interment.

Death of Infant.

The infant daughter and only child of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Morrison, died at the home in Tyrone last Thursday. The child was a grand-daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Morrison, of Bellefonte, and the body was brought here for burial. Interment was made in Union cemetery.

Van Roy Zimmerman Dead.

Van Roy Zimmerman died in Altoona on Monday at the home of his brother, from complications. He was 26 years old. His father, W. L. Zimmerman, of Unionville, three brothers and one sister survive.

Gerald Weaver Dead.

Gerald Weaver, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Nerr Weaver, of Axe Mann, died on Tuesday morning. The babe was three months old. Burial was made this Thursday morning at Jacksonville.

98 OUT OF EVERY 100 WOMEN BENEFITED

An Absolutely Reliable Statement Important to Every Woman

Remarkable Results Shown by a Nation Wide Canvass of Women Purchasers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. 50,000 Women Answer

For some time a circular has been enclosed with each bottle of our medicine bearing this question: "Have you received benefit from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?"

Replies, to date, have been received from over 50,000 women answering that question.

98 per cent of which say YES. That means that 98 out of every 100 women who take the medicine for the ailments for which it is recommended are benefited by it.

This is a most remarkable record of efficiency. We doubt if any other medicine in the world equals it.

Think of it—only two women out of 100 received no benefit—98 successes out of a possible 100.

Did you ever hear anything like it? We must admit that we, ourselves, are astonished.

Of course we know that our medicine does benefit the large majority of women who take it. But that only two out of 100 received no benefit is most astonishing.

It only goes to prove, however, that a medicine specialized for certain definite ailments—not a cure all—one that is made by the most scientific process; not from drugs, but from a combination of nature's roots and herbs, can and does do more good than hastily prepared prescriptions.

You see, we have been making, improving and refining this medicine for over 50 years until it is so perfect and so well adapted to women's needs that it actually has the virtue to benefit 98 out of every 100 women who take it.

Its reliability and recognized efficiency has gained for it a sale in almost every country in the world—leading all others.

Such evidence should induce every woman suffering from any ailment peculiar to her sex to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and see if she can't be one of the 98. The Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

Iceberg Peril Is Now Acute

Plan to Warn All Vessels by Radio of Route, Size and Speed of Wandering Ice.

Washington.—More dangerous icebergs are expected to make their appearance in the steamship lanes of the North Atlantic this spring than in many years. This knowledge, of great value to mariners and marine insurance companies, has been obtained as a result of the new method of iceberg forecasting, in process of being perfected by the International Ice Patrol and the United States Weather Bureau.

Eleven years ago, on April 14, 1912, the Titanic collided with an iceberg in the North Atlantic on her maiden voyage and went to the bottom with some 1,500 persons. There had been many casualties of the sea arising from icebergs before that. Tramp steamers and sailing craft had many narrow escapes and some were lost. Many of the ships indefinitely posted as missing on the boards of the world's shipping offices also are believed to have been sunk in this way.

The appalling loss of the Titanic resulted in an international conference on the safety of life at sea. This conference, to which the United States sent Captain Ellworth P. Bertholf, head of the coast guard, agreed upon the establishment of the International Ice Patrol. For ten years this patrol has been maintained, its cost allocated among the maritime nations in proportion to their tonnage.

From autumn until spring two American coast guard cutters, stanch ships, designed to ride out any storm, patrol the tempestuous seas of the North Atlantic. Each cutter has a two weeks' tour of duty, at the end of which it is relieved by the other. If either, or both, becomes disabled, other cutters are dispatched to the patrol.

Notify Ships by Radio.

The cutters seek out any ice which lies below the forty-third parallel of latitude—about on a line with Boston. Then they cruise northward. It is the duty of these ice scouts constantly to maintain contact with the southern, the eastern and the western limits of the ice. By means of radio they notify all ships within their long range of the position of bergs.

Lieutenant Edward H. Smith of the United States coast guard has just submitted a special report on meteorological aspects of the International Ice Patrol which is regarded as of special importance. He has recommended that the United States establish outposts in the Far North to give earlier intelligence of the presence and progress of these bergs than can be obtained by the patrol.

His report of observations is being studied by the United States weather bureau, in connection with the studies of long-distance forecasting of various kinds which it is making, and there is a fair promise that the government will take the lead in perfecting this new science of iceberg forecasting, as it is called.

An iceberg is the huge tip of a glacier. A glacier creeps at little more than geologic speed down the gorges of the Arctic mountains, being, in fact, a river of ice. This river flows into the sea. The contact with the warmer water usually is not sufficient to detach the end of the glacier. The ice is of tremendous weight, and as it flows out into the sea it takes the form of a vast beam of solid ice, protruding into the deep water. Having no resting place on the earth, the weight produces a greater and greater downward pull on the end of the glacier. When this weight becomes too ponderous the protruding end breaks off.

Bergs a Peril in Spring.

The first discovery in connection with iceberg forecasting was that the weather conditions of the winter and especially the spring have much to do with the breaking off of the glacier ends.

The west coast of Greenland is the birthplace of the Atlantic icebergs. Observations by Lieutenant Smith show that a season of stormy weather will result in the breaking off of more bergs than a relatively calm season. The vast forces of mountainous waves, raised by severe storms, pound so irresistibly upon the protruding ends of the glaciers that they snap a year or more prior to the time they would fall from their own weight.

The present season is expected to have more bergs than usual, because the winter and early spring were about the most tempestuous in the history of the weather bureau. The North Atlantic has been vexed by storm after storm. In February, instead of the nine or ten storm areas regarded as normal, some 20 disturbances swept across the ocean. Ship after ship reported the worst buffeting in the memory of many shipmasters. The waves which have been tossing shipping all winter presumably have been battering loose the glacier ends at the mouths of the Greenland gorges.

The layman naturally thinks of the iceberg as a tenant of the winter sea, so bleak and cold are its associations. But it is in winter that the North Atlantic is most free of bergs, because they are still in winter quarters. It might almost be said that the spring has the same effect on the bergs as it has on man, for it is with the coming of the vernal season that the great mountains of ice tear loose and go silently cruising down into the steamship lanes. The Titanic was sailing on an almost summery sea in mid-April when she struck. The bergs drift south, and in the course of the summer melt away, so that the fall and winter find the seas again free. So it appears that frequent and accurate reports of the incidence of storms in the Far North will be of great value in the forecasting of icebergs.

Wind Is Factor.

A second important factor is the wind. It is the wind which, pressing upon the crystal sails of the bergs, blows them away from the shore and into the full course of the Arctic drift, then southward to the ocean currents. A season of light winds or of winds from a quarter unfavorable to the movement of the bergs might conceivably retard their southward migration long enough to permit many of them to melt. In consequence, it is of importance to have from Far North outposts accurate data on the incidence, direction and velocity of the winds.

A third factor is the ocean currents, which in general terms are inexorable and immutable—in a grander sense they, like Lord Tennyson's brook, "flow on forever." Yet they are subject to variations, and in the last year, which has been one of extraordinary meterological phenomena the world over, many curious aberrations have been noted in their movements.

Take the great lord of all the ocean currents, the mighty Gulf stream. It sweeps majestically up from the south, bearing an incalculable volume of warm water into the northern latitudes. It is axiomatic that a warmer fluid body assumes an ascendency over a colder one. So the Gulf stream mounts atop of the colder waters from the frozen north, swimming along on the very surface of the sea.

One-eighth part of an iceberg stands above the water line; its great bulk is below. It is plain that a small iceberg will not extend so far down into the sea as a great one. Suppose that a small berg—but even these are great enough to sink any ship—is floating down the Atlantic. It encounters the Gulf stream. The stream is flowing on the surface, and, as the berg does not extend so very far down into the water, the greater part of its bulk is opposed to the surface current and drift where the Gulf stream steers it. Then conceive of a great berg of such ponderous weight and size that it reaches far into the ocean depths. The Labrador current, flowing south, has dived under the northward-flowing Gulf stream. A greater mass of the big berg's bulk is far enough down to be chiefly influenced by the southward-flowing subterranean current. This berg, then, goes south, even against the flow of the Gulf stream.

Constant Observation Needed.

The thing needed is constant observation of these phenomena, in relation to the winds and the course of the bergs, to determine accurately which stream is likely to capture them as its prize and bear them off to whatever part of Neptune's realm it is seeking.

Lieutenant Smith has proposed a station at Cape Dyer, in Baffin land, which could report on meteorological conditions, wind and weather, and the progress of the bergs as they passed in majestic procession down to the southern seas. Such stations, it is asserted, could chart the speed of the bergs, and mariners would know that when a berg was reported as passing a given point in command of a given current, with such and such winds, it would be due in the path of their ships on an ascertainable date.

The next few years are expected to bring many added facilities to the weather bureau in long-distance forecasting of icebergs, storms and periods of moisture or aridity. The science of meteorology has advanced rapidly, and all that is lacking is more observation stations.

The region of the Bering sea off the Alaskan coast and the almost inaccessible fastnesses of the Lake Baikal region of Siberia are the breeding places of the great storms that sweep the world. It has been estimated that if the principal nations would jointly assume an expenditure of some $10,000,000 a year in establishing and maintaining outposts in these places and at some other strategic points, the uncertainty of the future, so far as weather is concerned, would be at an end.

The commercial value of long-distance weather forecasting is inestimable. If at the planting season, the farmer could know the amount of moisture he would have during the growing season, he could guide his planting and cultivation more intelligently.—New York Times.

FOUND ROBBERY LOOT

Raymond Knutson, seven-year-old boy of Minneapolis, Minn., while playing in an alley near his home came upon a bundle of "pretty papers" and, rather than give them away to his playmates, exercised business ingenuity and sold them for five cents. One of the boys who bought the papers, which turned out to be bonds, showed them to a banker of Minneapolis and in less time than it took Raymond to dispose of his papers a score of detectives were on the scene, recovering quickly $19,275 in bonds which Raymond had found and later an additional $14,000 found in a coal pile nearby. The bonds were part of a $33,875 loot stolen from the Bank of Rock at Malden Rock, Wis.

This photograph shows the unveiling.

Sorting of Mail Is Done by Machine

This new mechanical contrivance, designed to insure an early dispatch of mail, has been installed in the Washington post office. Five men at keyboards like this one operate the machine like a linotype machine and by the pressure of two keys on the keyboard each letter in front of the operator is sent on its way to a particular cell or compartment.

SECOND ACADEMY TROPHY

Bellefonte School Wins More Prestige at Pittsburgh Meet.

A very pretty and much coveted trophy a silver cup, awarded to the Bellefonte Academy for the splendid work done at the Carnegie Tech track meet in Pittsburgh, was placed in the display window at the Montgomery & Co. clothing store here on Wednesday. The cup was the second trophy won by the Academy track team in the past few weeks, the other being the banner won at the big track meet in Philadelphia the preceding Saturday, also displayed in the Montgomery & Co. window.

The honors won by the Bellefonte Academy team at Pittsburgh last Saturday brought more prestige to the Bellefonte school and helped more in making Bellefonte known as a live town. In competition with Kiski and with the Mercersburg Academy, the Bellefonte school easily outclassed Kiski and gave the Mercersburg Academy lads the only really strong competition which they had.

Photos were taken and scenes shown in the Pittsburgh Sunday papers indicate that the Academy athletes were there, giving Mercersburg hair-breadth contests and placing four times out of fourteen events. Realizing that the Mercersburg Academy is considered the biggest, with an enrollment of about 500, and has the reputation of being the crack team of the United States, the scoring by the Bellefonte Academy team was remarkable and winning second place was very gratifying. The total score for Mercersburg was 51 points; Bellefonte Academy, 35, and Kiski, 22

"Tiny" Linn captured first place in the shot put. The Bellefonte team also captured first place in the discus throw and the one mile relay race. Taking first place in the one mile relay race both at Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, in the biggest prep school track meets of the country, is an enviable achievement of the Bellefonte Academy team.

PENN STATE COMMENCEMENT

Alumni Reunion Classes Will Be a Feature This Year.

The Pennsylvania State College commencement will be held June 8 to 12.

The gathering of alumni reunion classes will be one of the outstanding features of the 63rd annual Commencement. Former students and graduates have been planning for weeks to inaugurate an entirely new program for the observance of Alumni Day on June 9.

There is every indication that the commencement this year will eclipse all others. The class to be graduated is expected to number more than 600 men and women, the largest in the history of Penn State.

Upwards of 100 alumni in State College and vicinity are on committees that are making preparations for the Alumni Day stunts which promise to be of a very exceptional character this year. A new reunion schedule goes into effect this year which will bring together the graduates of 4 classes who were in college together, instead of those from one class celebrating an anniversary reunion. The latter feature will be maintained at the same time, and the classes of '93, '03, '13 and '18 are among those that are making special arrangements for reunion features. Commencement exercises are to be held on Tuesday, June 12.

Interest in Order of Demolay.

The formation of the new Penn-Centre Chapter of the Order of Demoley for boys being started in this town under the auspices of the Commandery of Knights Templar is making great progress. Nearly sixty boys enrolled from all parts of the county and the institution will take place very probably the evening of May 31 in the opera house to which any master mason is eligible to attend. The paraphernalia has been purchased and some of the necessary money raised to make it an assured success and of great value to the community. Invitations have been extended to the Masons of Lewistown, Huntingdon, Altoona, Philipsburg, Lock Haven and Williamsport and many will be present from these places.

West Susquehanna Classis.

The sixty-seventh annual sessions of West Susquehanna Classis will open next Monday, May 14, in the Reformed church at Boalsburg, Pa. at 8 P. M. The opening sermon will be delivered by the retiring president, Rev. Wm. E. Harr, of Lock Haven, after which the officers will be elected. Tuesday morning the Classical Communion will be held, after which the business sessions will begin. The Classis has 29 ministers who serve 63 congregations with 6344 members. Last year these congregations contributed $30,656. for benevolent work and $48,832 for congregational purposes. The sessions will close Wednesday evening with an address by a missionary from the foreign field. The public is cordially invited to all of these sessions.

Hotel Landmark to Go.

The Berryhill property, the longest building in Beech Creek and an old landmark, originally built in the lumber boom days as a hotel and used as such for many years, has been sold to James Reish by Hess, Fearon and Furst. Mr. Reish is planning to raze the building and to make use of the lumber at his farm at Lisk run.
